- Spring: 1 position
- Summer: 2 positions
- Fall: 1 position

Position Description

Title: Communications Intern

Reports to: Hannah Thompson-Weeman, Vice President of Communications

Duties: Support the Alliance's communications efforts by assisting with social media content production, research of key issues in animal agriculture, media monitoring, legislative tracking, developing reports and member resources and a variety of other projects. Interns function as full-fledged members of the Alliance team and will be asked to contribute at a high level to help us achieve our mission of bridging the communications gap between farm and fork.

Requirements

Most importantly, candidates must have a strong interest in and passion for animal agriculture. Excellent written and oral communication skills are also a requirement, along with a strong command of Microsoft Office, the ability to work independently and meet deadlines, and a willingness to work as a team player. Preferred skills include graphic design (or an interest in learning), a strong grasp of using various social media platforms and an understanding of public policy. The ideal candidate would be a junior or senior-level student pursuing a degree in an agricultural field or communications/public relations.

Compensation

Internship salary: $1,500/month, plus parking or metro reimbursement. Course credit is also possible.

How to Apply

To apply, send a cover letter, résumé, writing sample and 3 references to info@animalagalliance.org.

- Spring Deadline: November 15

About the Alliance

The Alliance is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that works to bridge the communication gap between farm and fork. The Alliance's mission is to connect key industry stakeholders to arm them with responses to emerging issues, to engage food chain influencers and promote consumer choice by helping them better understand modern animal agriculture and protect animal agriculture by exposing those who threaten our nation's food supply with damaging misinformation.
