ABOUT

"We're strategically challenging the status quo of animal agribusiness through undercover investigations, legal advocacy, corporate and food system reform, and empowering everyone to choose vegan."

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- Campaigns to persuade food companies to decrease use of animal proteins.
- Runs chickenindustry.com which shares misinformation about the chicken community.
- Representatives seek "undercover" employment at farms and processing plants to create "undercover" videos.
- Changed name from "Compassion Over Killing" to "Animal Outlook" in 2020.
- Promotes a meat, egg and dairy-free lifestyle with vegetarian starter guides.
- Operates a traveling anti-meat exhibit often seen in urban areas.
- In 2018, the organization announced a "cooperative agreement" with Farm Animal Rights Movement \(FARM\) in which the following initiatives were transferred from FARM to Animal Outlook:
 - Have We Been Lied To? Tour (10 Billion Lives Tour)
 - Meatless Mondays e-newsletter
 - Meatout Campaign
 - World Day for Farmed Animals

A VANGUARD DEFENSE ORGANIZATION

Headquarters: Port St. Lucie, FL

Website: www.animalrecoverymission.org

ABOUT

“Our mission is to be an uncompromising defending force for the welfare of animals and to put an end to and prevent pain, suffering, and torture inflicted as a result of inhumane practices.” “ARM implements direct-action tactics to investigate, document, and expose illegal activities of animal cruelty.”

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- ARM conducts “undercover investigations” into farms, claiming to expose many forms of animal abuse, including the black market horse meat trade, underground animal fighting rings, and bestiality.
- Shares “wanted” posters offering rewards and detailed descriptions of workers in alleged illegal processing plants and offering rewards for information leading to their arrest.
- Responsible for the “undercover” videos targeting Fair Oaks Farms that were released in 2019.
- “Humane Education” program includes advertisements on billboards and exhibiting at vegan expos.
- Conducts “raids” of various facilities including illegal processing facilities, animal fighting, racehorse abuse, and many more.
- Collaborates with Animal Legal Defense Fund on “animal torture” cases.
- Opened ARM Sanctuary, Inc. in 2015.
- Owns an “undercover training facility,” equipped with milking stations and gestation stalls where they train volunteer “investigators” and organization members on ways to gain access to farms and facilities.

ABOUT

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA)'s mission, as stated by founder Henry Bergh in 1866, is "to provide effective means for the prevention of cruelty to animals throughout the United States."

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- Misleading, emotional campaigns using shelter animals.
- "Change your Chicken," "Factory Farm Detox," influencing purchasing in schools/local governments, surveys on public perception.
- Pressure campaign tactics – including undercover videos and mobilizing protestors - to coerce restaurants, retailers, and foodservice brands with the goal of ending animal agriculture and imposing vegan diets on consumers.
- Uses "guardian" rather than "owner" because it doesn't think animals should be legally considered property.
- ASPCA's position on animals raised for food: "It is our collective responsibility to ensure that farm animals are at least provided with the Five Freedoms, which is not currently the case on factory-like industrial farms (nor on all small or less industrialized farms)... Farm animal suffering can be reduced through more humane farming methods and through welfare-conscious and reduced animal product consumption."
- In 2021, the organization came under fire due to the misleading marketing tactics to receive donations that leave many believing there is a connection or affiliation with local SPCAs, which there is not.
- Works directly with farms and food brands to "welfare-certify" farms.
- "Shop With Your Heart": provides guides to consumers to find "plant-based and welfare-certified brands" of products.

GROUP RISK LEVEL: HIGH

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO (continued...)

- "Factory Farming": campaign seeking to ban common farm animal production practices through legislation and ballot initiatives.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

- "The ASPCA firmly believes that animals who are bred, raised and killed or harvested for human consumption, like all animals, are entitled to protection from distress and suffering during their lives and at the time of their deaths." - Lahaina News, 2011
- "In addition to harming animals, factory farming is a major source of pollution, antibiotic abuse, foodborne illness, unjust employment practices and community health crises." - Website, 2021
- "[T]he majority of the nearly 10 billion land-based animals, plus countless more aquatic animals, farmed for food each year in the U.S. live in unacceptable conditions that do not align with consumers' stated values." - Website, 2021

DIRECT ACTION EVERYWHERE

Headquarters: Berkeley, CA
Website: www.directactioneverywhere.com

ABOUT

Direct Action Everywhere (DXE) is a global network of activists working “to achieve revolutionary social and political change for animals in one generation.”

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- Organize protests, “undercover investigations,” trespassing to steal animals (“open rescues”), and disruptive actions with the explicit purpose of animal liberation and an end to animal agriculture.
- Providing how-to videos for extremists on their website, with topics like how to prepare for arrest, how to organize a protest, and how to lead a frontline surveillance team.
- Campaigning against specific retailers and restaurants who serve meat.
- Organized by a global steering committee and chapters across the United States and Canada, with a “core chapter” based in the San Francisco Bay area.
- Campaigning for the adoption of “Rose’s Law,” an “animal bill of rights” named after a hen that was stolen from a farm.
- “Right to Rescue” campaign: claiming extremists have the “right” to trespass and steal animals from farms and facilities. In 2022, an anonymous jury found the group “not guilty” of stealing two pigs from a farm.
- “No More Factory Farms” campaign: pressuring political officials to enact a moratorium on “factory farms” or confined animal feeding operations (CAFOs).
- “Cancel Animal Ag” campaign: attempted to capitalize on the COVID-19 pandemic by trying to make a connection between animal agriculture and public health.
- In 2015, DXE was having internal trouble when former members accused group leaders of dismissing concerns of abuse based on race, gender, sexual orientation, religion, and nationality.

GROUP RISK LEVEL: EXTREME

- In May 2020, launched an interactive map of more than 27,500 farms and facilities across the U.S. called “Project Counterglow” to encourage extremist action.

- “All of these events [agricultural fairs, eating contests, political rallies, etc.] need to be interrupted and shut down.” - Zach Groff, 2016
- “The global agricultural sector will nearly double in greenhouse gas emissions (from deforestation and direct emissions) by 2050.” - Website, 2021
- “There are strains of bird and swine flu with pandemic potential circulating in factory farms today, where intensive crowding and a lack of genetic diversity allow viruses to spread rapidly and become more deadly.” - Website, 2021

Humane World for Animals™

Headquarters: Washington, DC
Website: www.humaneworld.org

ABOUT

Claims to fight the “big fights, working to end all forms of animal cruelty and achieve the vision behind our name: a humane society.” The group’s “big fights” are “stopping puppy mills, ending cosmetics animal testing, banning trophy hunting, going fur-free, and improving the lives of farm animals.”

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- The organization has no affiliation with local shelters but runs misleading commercials filled with celebrities and images of mistreated animals to fundraise.
- “Undercover” employment at farms and processing plants to obtain illicit video footage and photos.
- “Every Living Thing” campaign: targets faith-based communities to make them feel guilty about eating meat.
- “Factory Farming” campaign: seeks to ban common farm animal production practices through legislation and ballot initiatives.
- Actively working to abolish the use of confinement practices within the animal agriculture community.
- Buys stocks in retail/restaurant companies to introduce shareholder resolutions impacting farm animal production practices.
- Files lawsuits against governments and animal facilities to force policy changes.
- Targets youth with campaigns including Humane Society University.
- Hosts conferences and workshops for supporters, including annual Taking Action for Animals (TAA) Conference.
- Acquired the Association of Veterinarians for Animals Rights (now called Humane Society Veterinary Medical Association) in 2008.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

- “Factory farming causes billions of animals to suffer every year, but they are not the only ones paying a heavy price. Animal agriculture accounts for a large percentage of the greenhouse gases associated with climate change. Waste from factory farms also makes its way into the air and water supply, poisoning rural communities.” – Website, 2021
- “I can assure you that when we go to Mars, it will be a vegan planet.” – Josh Balk, 2017
- “Four years of Biblical study and reflection produced what was released today [September 30, 2015] as an Evangelical Statement on Responsible Care for Animals.” – Wayne Pacelle, 2015

MERCY FOR ANIMALS

Headquarters: Los Angeles, CA

Website: www.mercyforanimals.org

ABOUT

"Mercy For Animals' mission is to construct a compassionate food system that is not just kind to animals but essential for the future of our planet and all who share it."

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- Advocates for the total elimination of animal agriculture, promoting a vegan lifestyle.
- Sends "undercover investigators" to record farms and processing facilities and uses "shocking" imagery and video footage to manipulate consumers.
- Conducts drone "investigations" in which they collect video footage of "factory farms" via high-tech drones.
- Heavily pressuring food brands to adopt sourcing policies for cage-free eggs and broiler welfare "reform."
- Its five areas of approach are:
 - "Undercover investigations"
 - Legal advocacy
 - Corporate engagement
 - Organizing
 - Public engagement
- Hosts the website ChooseVeg.com, a provider of vegetarian and vegan eating guides, recipes, and reasons to switch to vegetarianism.
- In 2017, founder Nathan Runkle published a book titled Mercy for Animals, "a compelling look at animal welfare and factory farming in the United States."
- Lists "adherence to healthy vegan lifestyle" as a position requirement in their job postings.
- Hosts annual Hope Gala featuring various celebrities and influencers to raise money.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

- "At industrial farms and slaughterhouses, farmed animals endure shocking abuse, out of sight and out of mind. But a team of Mercy for Animals undercover investigators, wired with hidden cameras, is pulling back the curtains of these cruel and secretive operations, leading to landmark changes along the way." - Website, 2021
- "Animal abuse runs rampant in the meat, dairy, and egg industries. With no federal laws regulating the treatment of animals in factory farms, cruelty has become the norm." - Website, 2021
- "Mercy for Animals works to eliminate the worst animal abuse and grow market share of plant- and cell-based foods." - Website, 2021

Headquarters: Norfolk, VA
Website: www.peta.org

ABOUT

With more than 9 million members, PETA is the largest animal rights organization in the world. Its mission states that “PETA opposes speciesism, a human-supremacist worldview, and focuses on the four areas in which the largest numbers of animals suffer the most intensely for the longest periods of time: in laboratories, the food industry, the clothing trade, and the entertainment business.”

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- Uses shock tactics and defends criminal action by radical extremists like the Animal Liberation Front and Direct Action Everywhere while pushing for the elimination of animal agriculture, the fur industry, hunting, and animal research.
- Seeks “undercover” employment at farms and facilities to create “undercover” videos.
- Buys stocks in companies to introduce shareholder resolutions related to animal agriculture practices.
- Claims the animal agriculture community is “humane-washing” consumers into believing animals are raised humanely.
- Launched a $1 million challenge to companies to develop commercial production of “in vitro meat” by 2012.
- Promotes an excise tax (or “sin tax”) to be placed on meat, milk, poultry, and eggs.
- Targets children and teens with youth advocacy campaigns and social media.
- Rated a 2 out of 4 on Charity Navigator, partly due to high fundraising expenses and low scores on governance.

THE HUMANE LEAGUE

Headquarters: Rockville, MD

Website: www.thehumaneleague.org

ABOUT

"We exist to end the abuse of animals raised for food by influencing the policies of the world's biggest companies, demanding legislation, and empowering others to take action and leave animals off their plates."

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

- The group's founder, Nick Cooney, was convicted in November 2006 on charges of terrorist threats, harassment, and conspiracy to harass. This led the group to change their name from "Hugs for Puppies" to "The Humane League."
- THL was placed on NJ domestic terrorism watch list in 2016 along with Animal Liberation Front.
- THL's primary campaign targets are universities, corporate food services, and companies that provide food services.
- "88% Campaign:" focused on "changing the lives of billions of chickens" and targets restaurants and retailers to pressure them into adopting new animal "welfare" standards for broilers.
- "End Corporate Animal Abuse:" targets food companies "to end the worst abuses of chickens."
- "Student Alliance for Animals:" a "network of student activists across the country taking effective action for animals."
- Promotes veganism and provides a free "Veg Cookbook."
